DEPARTMENT OF STATE PUBLICATION 7846
Department and Foreign Service Series 128
Revised May 1983

This publication contains a complete and official listing of the foreign consular offices in the United States, together with their jurisdictions and recognized consular officers. Compiled by the U.S. Department of State, with the full cooperation of the foreign missions in Washington, it is offered as a convenience to organizations and persons who must deal with consular representatives of foreign governments. It has been designed with particular attention to the requirements of government agencies, state tax officials, international trade organizations, chambers of commerce, and judicial authorities who have a continuing need for handy access to this type of information. Trade with other regions of the world has become an increasingly vital element in the economy of the United States. The machinery of this essential commerce is complicated by numerous restrictions, license requirements, quotas, and other measures adopted by the individual countries. Since the regulations affecting both trade and travel are the particular province of the consular service of the nations involved, reliable information as to entrance requirements, consignment of goods, details of transshipment, and, in many instances, suggestions as to consumer needs and preferences may be obtained at the foreign consular offices throughout the United States.

Immunities Accorded to Consular Officers

Consular officers should be accorded their respective privileges, rights and immunities as directed by international and domestic law. These foreign officials should be treated with the courtesy and respect that befit their distinguished position. At the same time, it is a well established principle of international law that, without prejudice to their privileges and immunities, it is the duty of all persons enjoying such privileges and immunities to respect local laws and regulations. Unless otherwise provided by specific treaty, they are entitled to the limited immunities described below.

Career Consular Officers

Under Article 41 of the Vienna Convention on Consular Relations (VCCR), a foreign career consular officer enjoys personal inviolability and is not liable to arrest or detention pending trial except in the case of a grave crime (felony offense that would endanger the public safety) and pursuant to a decision by the competent judicial authority. Under Article 43 of the VCCR, this immunity from jurisdiction is limited to acts performed in the exercise of consular functions. Questions relating to this issue are subject to court determination. Nevertheless, two classes of civil actions are specifically excepted from the claim of "official acts immunity" or "functional immunity" as this immunity is sometimes referred to; these relate to private contracts and damage arising from accidents. Career consular officers can be identified by credentials issued by the U.S. Department of State, which bear its seal, the name of the officer, title, and the signature of a Department of State official.

Honorary Consular Officers

Often citizens or permanent residents of the receiving state are appointed and received as honorary consular officers to perform functions generally performed by career consular officers. Such officers do not receive identification cards from the Department of State, although they may exhibit reduced-size copies of the diplomatic note evidencing recognition by the United States Government. These individuals are entitled to immunity from the civil and criminal jurisdiction of the receiving state as to official acts performed in the exercise of their consular functions, subject to court determination. They do not, however, enjoy personal inviolability and, thus, are not immune from arrest or detention. However, appropriate steps must be provided to accord to such officers the protection required by virtue of their official position. In addition, the consular archives and documents of a consular post headed by an honorary consular officer are inviolable at all times and wherever they may be, provided they are kept separate from other papers and documents of a private or commercial nature relating to the other activities of an honorary consular officer or persons working with that consular officer.

Families of Consular Officers

Family members of consular officers do not enjoy the same privileges and immunities with respect to the civil and criminal jurisdiction of the receiving state as do consular officers. However, they should be accorded appropriate courtesy and respect.

Consular Employees

Although foreign career consular employees are not listed in this publication, these individuals are entitled to immunity from the civil and criminal jurisdiction of the receiving state as to official acts performed in the exercise of their consular functions, subject to court determination. They do not, however, enjoy personal inviolability and, thus, are not immune from arrest or detention.

Consular Premises

Consular premises used exclusively for the work of the consular post cannot be entered without explicit permission of the head of the consular post or his designee or by the head of the diplomatic mission. This permission may be assumed in the case of fire or other disaster requiring prompt protective action.

Consular Archives, Documents, Records and Correspondence

The consular archives and documents are inviolable at all times and wherever they may be. The official correspondence of the consular post, which means all correspondence relating to the consular post and its functions, is likewise inviolable.
